The Ecology Center and the NAACP are membership-based organizations. If you are interested in becoming a member, please contact the organization or return the following:

name
address
city, state., zip
telephone

I would like to become a member of the NAACP. Enclosed is my contribution of $_____ (min. of $10 requested).

I would like to become a member of the Ecology Center. Enclosed is my contribution of $_____ (min. of $30 requested).

Please return to:

312 Harriet Street, Ypsilanti, MI 48197

or

Ecology Center

417 Detroit Street, Ann Arbor, MI 48104

Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention Project Steering Committee:

Dr. Bunyan Bryant, Associate Professor,

University of Michigan's

School of Natural Resources and Environment

Mary Louise Foley, Executive Committee, NAACP

Chuch Gray, NAACP

Rev. Albert Lighfoot,

President, Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti Area

Ministerial Alliance

Lander McLoyd, Ecology Center Bod. of Directors

Dr. Ruth Moorman, ACT-SO Chair, NAACP

Ray Mullins, President, NAACP

Gregory A. Peoples

Ronnie Peterson, Ypsilanti City Council

Rev. Victoria Swanson, First Vice-President,

NAACP

The Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention

Project is made possible through a grant from the

W.K. Kellogg Foundation

The Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention Project:

A Partnership for Ypsilanti's Environment

Ecology Center

Ypsilanti/Willow Run Branch of the NAACP

The Ecology Center and The NAACP: A Unique Partnership for the Environment

The Ecology Center of Ann Arbor and the Ypsilanti/Willow Run Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) have joined in an exciting and unique partnership to fight pollution in the Ypsilanti area. These organizations hope to lay the groundwork for a pollution prevention strategy to be employed throughout southeast Michigan.

Environmental Injustice and Washtenaw County: A Factual Account

Recent studies have documented the preponderance of environmental hazards in low-income and minority communities. This disturbing trend is also evident in Washtenaw County.

Ypsilanti is the most industrialized community in Washtenaw County.

According to the Washtenaw County Toxics Report (a study by the Ecology Center), toxic emissions in the Ypsilanti area are the greatest per capita in Washtenaw County — with 24% of the population, Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti

Township have approximately half of the county's total toxic emissions. Ypsilanti also has the highest percentage of people of color in the county, and is among the communities with the lowest per capita income.

Empowering the Community: Creating Awareness of Pollution Issues

The Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention
Project will stimulate community awareness and action on pollution issues.
Ecology Center and NAACP staff will assist community residents in identifying local environmental needs and creating a meaningful response. Staff will also provide technical support and aid in research as needed.

Cooperating with the Community: Reaching to Schools for Green Leadership

Student awareness and understanding of issues goes hand-in-hand with citizen action. The Project will work in selected neighborhood schools as a natural stepping stone for outreach to children and adults. Educational programs conducted in local school districts will encourage students, teachers and parents to become aware of pollution prevention issues and participate in finding solutions.

Making a Difference: A Community Project for the People

The Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention Project is a project for the people.

Citizens are encouraged to get involved in working for cleaner and healthier neighborhoods, providing the impetus for environmental change.

The Ecology Center is a regional, non-profit environmental organization which develops and conducts education, advocacy, information and technical programs which encourage the development of sustainable communities.

The Ypsilanti/Willow Run Branch of the NAACP is a leading chapter of the nation's foremost civil rights organization.

If you would like more information about the Ypsilanti Pollution Prevention Project, contact Jennifer Jamison Lofton, NAACP, at (313) 480-9654 or Stacey Fallis, Ecology Center at (313) 761-3186.