Community Development

Dear Householder:

You may be eligible for a free home energy conservation service provided by the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor. If you want to save energy and lower your utility bills without spending money on major home improvements, this program is designed for you. Through a grant from the City of Ann Arbor's Community Development Office, this service is available to both tenants and homeowners whose household income is below the figures listed on the enclosed card.

The Ecology Center's Energy Team will install some low-cost energy conservation devices in your home and get you started with many other things to prepare for the winter heating season. The team will help you learn to recognize and use no-cost ways of saving energy in your home. Many of the things the team will help you with can be used wherever you move.

This is not an energy audit. If you have already received a utility company energy audit, we will use that to determine what needs to be done first. We recommend that people use the audit service, particularly homeowners, but it is not necessary to have an audit to participate in this special program. If you would like an audit, we can arrange one for you.

If your income level is within the guidelines listed on the enclosed card, you are eligible for this free Energy Team visit. If you want to take a step towards reducing your utility bills, let the Ecology Center help.

To find out more about us or to arrange for an Energy Team visit, please give Jim Frey a call at the Ecology Center, 761-3186, or return the enclosed card and we will call you to arrange an appointment.

Sincerely,

Wendy Wilson
for the Ecology Center
